BREAK IN WATER PIPES.

West Siders are Compelled to Return to the Use of River Water Since Break in Main Occurred.

Since Friday afternoon the people of the west side have been indulging in river water as a beverage, the cause of this sudden change being a break in the water pipe where it crosses the Wisconsin river. If none of the signs fail it will be some little time before the west side is again supplied with spring water, as it may be necessary to get a diver here to repair the break in the water pipe.

The trouble occurred on Friday afternoon while the ice was moving down the river. Several parties who were standing on the bridge at the time noticed a boiling in the water near the west bank of the river, and those who knew that the water pipe ran along in that vicinity realized that it had probably been struck by the moving ice and either a hole knocked into one of the pipes or else the whole line moved so that one or more of the joints were broken.

Soon after the break occurred Engineer Pfeiffer was notified of the fact and it was only a short time before steam had been raised at the old pumping station up the river, and by closing the valves on both ends of the river pipes it was possible to supply the people on both sides with water, the only drawback being that those on the west side are receiving river water, which at this time of the year resembles weak coffee.

During a talk with Engineer Pfeiffer that gentleman stated that if it was possible to locate the break and if it was found to be near the shore, it might be possible to fix it without the services of a diver, as a cofferdam could be built around it, unless a considerable length of the pipe had been displaced or dragged out of its proper bed. He said, however, that it would not be possible to repair it in this manner until the water had fallen considerably and cleared up a great deal, as it is now so dark and rocky that it is impossible to see beneath the surface. He stated that the bed on which the pipe lays is very rough and uneven, and that at places it does not touch the river bottom for a considerable distance, and that if it had been smashed down in one of these places it might take considerable work to repair it. However, if only a hole is broken in one of the pipes it will be an easy matter to take out a fifty foot length, and by bolting in a new piece, to replace the damaged portion in a short time.

The pipe lies at a depth of seven feet below low water mark, so at the present time it is about thirteen feet below the surface, and it is surprising that the floating ice touched it at all. Mr. Pfeiffer is of the opinion that a pipe could be run across the bridge to supply the west side with spring water until the break is repaired, and there is no question that this would be a good way of getting around the difficulty. It would seem as if a small main might be laid on the bridge and kept there permanently, so that if at any time the river pipe got out of order it would be possible to couple on from one of the near by hydrants on each side of the river, and thus have no delay in the supply of water. The cost would not be very great, and it would provide the necessity of using river water for drinking purposes, which at this time of the year is absolutely filthy.

Two Dry Towns.

Persons of a convivial turn of mind are warned to steer clear of Pittsville and Dexterville during the next two years, as at the last election the people of both of these places voted that no license be granted for the purpose of selling intoxicating drinks of any kind. Of course they won't mind it much at Dexterville, for there is a gang of fellows over there who have got so used to going without a drink that they can work up a first class jug on orange cider, malted, or almost any other harmless ingredient, just so it is dished out over a bar in the regulation style. This was proven some time ago when two of the inhabitants were arrested for selling intoxicants, and those who had got full enough to go home and smash the furniture and mistreat their families swore that they could not tell whether they were drinking a Manhattan cocktail or just ordinary spring water with a little fruit juice in it to give it a flavor.

However, it will go harder with them at Pittsville. They have been in the habit of stepping into a booze emporium there whenever the notion struck them and calling for anything in the pharmacopoeia that happened to suit their particular case. Pittsville will have to be cut out of the visiting list of several of our prominent citizens hereafter.

A New Creamery.

Goshite & Schmitt will start a creamery in the town of Sigel near James Rouhan's place. The place was formerly a skimming station, and the present proprietors bought the place some time ago. The outfit for the new creamery arrived on Monday and is now being placed in position. There is a lot of good country tributary to this place and there is no question but what the proprietors should succeed in their work.

Electric Wires Down.

When the ice started down river on Friday it carried out the pole just below the center pier of the bridge on which was strung the electric light and power wires were strung, and as they came to the ground several of them broke and there was quite a bit of excitement in that neighborhood for a few minutes. There were a lot of people in that vicinity, but the most of them seemed to know that it was not a good thing to get too close to live electric wires, so that no accidents occurred.

The telephone company had also had their cable strung on this pole and a gang of workmen had just removed it and fastened it to the bridge when the pole was carried out, otherwise it might have been broken and damaged and thus caused considerable inconvenience and expense.

As it was necessary for the electric light company to shut off their power circuits until the damage could be repaired, which, however, did not take very long. Had the city council allowed the company to string their wires on the bridge as they proposed doing last fall, there would have been no trouble from this source and it would have been much safer for citizens who cross the bridge.

ARTHUR RAMSAY LAID AT REST

Many Friends Follow Remains to Their Last Resting Place in Forest Hill

Arthur Ramsay was laid at rest in Forest Hill cemetery last Saturday afternoon, the funeral occurring from the Episcopal church, Father Jenner officiating. The church was filled to its utmost capacity with friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay, and there were many beautiful floral tributes sent by friends of the deceased. Arthur Ramsay was born on January 10th, 1871, at Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, England. He was the second son of Sir Alexander Ramsay, Baronet. He was educated at Cheltenham college and afterwards at St. Andrews college, Edinburgh. He studied civil engineering, and came to this country in 1893, and was employed in the office of Edwards & Irwin in Appleton. Later he went to the state of Washington, being located at Tacoma for a time, and later at Seattle. Upon the death of Mr. Hutchinson he returned to Wisconsin and coming to this city took charge of the Pioneer Wood Pulp company's mill. He was married in 1899 to Miss Marion Hutchinson, daughter of the late Geo. E. Hutchinson, and she survives him.

It is seldom that anyone meets death more sudden and unexpectedly than did Mr. Ramsay. It is seldom also that the death of a person in a community causes more universal surprise than did this one. Engaged as he was in the management of the pulp mill, nobody thought of him as being in any danger at any time, and when the news of his death came the friends of the city last Wednesday evening, it was hard for many to credit the story.

Mr. Ramsay, in company with three of his workmen, Fred Phagel, Robert Paterek and Henry Shredler, was engaged in clearing the sluice way above the mill of ice and drift wood. The sluiceway had thawed holes in the ice in many places, and where the water was rapid there was all open water. During the work Mr. Ramsay was standing on a plank that spanned a portion of the water. The plank was rather a risky one and he had been warned by the workmen to use great care while in this position, but he evidently was interested in his work and for a moment forgot where he was. While on the plank he loosened a log that had been caught by the current, and this log so that when it started down stream it struck the plank on which Mr. Ramsay stood with such force as to cause him to lose his balance and fall into the water. The current was very swift at that point and the waters icy cold, still Mr. Ramsay made a struggle for his life, and in spite of his heavy winter clothing made some progress toward shore. Before he could reach any thing that he could get hold of, however, he was caught in an eddy and whirled about and sucked beneath the water.

Though the workmen were close at hand, they could do nothing toward rescuing the unfortunate man, as it all occurred in a moment's time and was over before they could hardly make a move. It was nearly dark when the accident occurred, and nothing much could be done toward looking for the body, as the river at that time was almost a solid sheet of ice at that point, and it was the opinion of all that if the body had been drawn under the ice, it might possibly never be seen again.

A watch was kept, however, and next morning the flutator of some clothing was noticed in the current of a hole a short distance below where the accident occurred and inside of a few minutes the body had been taken from the water and deposited on the shore. It was certainly a very lucky chance that led to the recovery of the body so soon, for it is seldom that the Wisconsin river gives up her dead until many days after a tragedy of this kind has occurred, and sometimes the victim passes out of existence and is never heard of again.

Mrs. Ramsay, who is afflicted with heart trouble, was prostrated by the blow, and for some time the services of a physician were required constantly at her bedside. She certainly has the sympathy of all in the community in her sad affliction.

Will Put in Churning Station.
R. A. Fuller, of the firm of Fuller & Mathis of Marshfield, was in the city on Friday for the purpose of finding a suitable place to put in a churning station for the purpose of making butter. It is the intention of the firm to put out numerous separators in this locality and to have the cream shipped to this city where they will make it into butter and ship it to market.

They are working the same scheme at Marshfield, where they have been located for the past four years, and have met with great success, and they think that the same thing can be done here. Mr. Fuller stated that the company would probably have out some two hundred cream separators that would be tributary to this station. They secured the Joseph Mountain building, and expect to have the station in operation by the first of May.

WILLIAM OWEN HERE.

Appears Before Large Audience Monday Night

The opera house was well filled on Monday evening when William Owen presented his new play, entitled "When Lewis XI. was King," and there is no question but what every body there was well pleased with both the production of the play and the play itself.

It would probably sound like a large number of our readers to say that Mr. Owen's play is better than those of Shakespeare's that he has been presenting before the public for a number of years, but it is no doubt a fact, nevertheless, that a large number of people liked it much better. It was grand enough to suit the most exacting, there was enough tragedy for the average American audience, and besides those there was a vein of humor running through the plot that relieved the monotony that is inevitable in many of the heavier plays.

As to the manner in which the different parts were taken, they were fully up to the standard of the company. William Owen was, as always, going from the pathetic to the happy go lucky with his usual freedom and engaging way. Mr. McConnell, who has been with him so many years, and who always goes out with as much enthusiasm as his best friend, took the part of Lewis and also that of the cardinal. It is hard to conceive of how anybody could improve on the manner in which he presented his part. It would be hard to imagine of a better combination than Messrs. Owen and McConnell.

The leading lady was Mrs. Ray, whose name is well known to our people as Mrs. Owen himself, and one has but to see her own skill on the stage.

Take altogether, the play was a good one and well presented and was worthy all the patronage it got.

Pleanty of Rainfall.

Weather observer Mahoney reports that between the 1st of April, 1904 and the 1st of April, 1904, there was a total rainfall of thirty and eighty hundredths of an inch. The rain gauge at the court house. The greatest amount during any one month was that of July last, when there was a precipitation of six and three tenths of an inch, and the least amount was that of January last, when the precipitation amounted to only fifteen hundredths of an inch. All of the winter months were comparatively dry, as we did not have a very heavy snow fall and what did come down was rather dry. Nearly three feet of water during the year was a pretty good record.

J. O. Herbert Moves.

J. O. Herbert, the photographer, has removed from the Kramer building on the east side to a studio in the Harrison building over the Gross & Lyons company on the west side. Mr. Herbert has had a fine ground glass sky and slide light put in and has a large reception room and is fitted to do better work and more of it than ever before.

He opened up in the new place on Monday morning and is well pleased with his new quarters. He invites all of his old customers to give him a call, and will also do his best to please any new ones that come his way.

Died at the Poor Farm.

Henry Bartelsday, an inmate of the poor farm, died on Thursday at the age of 65, cause of death being typhoid pneumonia. Deceased came from the town of Randolph and had been an inmate at the farm only about two weeks. He had no relatives so far as known, and the funeral was held the next day, deceased being interred at the farm.

CARPETS!

THERE is no question but what we have the finest line of floor coverings to be found in this part of the state, but if you have never visited our carpet department you are probably not aware of this fact. This is the time of year when the housekeeper is taking up her old carpets, and when they are cleaned they are often a sad looking lot and have to be replaced. We feel that if you see our line of

Carpets, Rugs, Oilcloths, Linoleums and Mattings

You will find that it will not pay you to put down the old carpets again. There is probably no place where so much money can be wasted as in buying cheap, poor carpets. The first cost is less, but they have to be replaced so often and their good looks are of such short duration that the result is most discouraging. Come and look over the stock in our carpet department before you buy anything in this line and we rather think we can please you.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year.....$1.50
Six Months......75

Advertising Rates.—A flat rate of 5 cents per line will be charged for all display advertising. For contracts over 20 lines long, and for advertising in the Tribune, 40 cents per line per week. Local notices, cards of thanks, productions of interest and matter of the character will be charged at the rate of five cents per line. These rates are the same for everybody, and no favoritism will be made. The Tribune guarantees a circulation of over 1,200 copies each week.

Last week the Tribune went to its many readers in this vicinity in a considerably enlarged form, and so far as can be gathered by the remarks of our patrons the change is generally conceded to be a good one. Nothing was said about the proposed change for the reason that we did not consider it necessary; we thought it would speak for itself, and we rather think that it has done so. Many have asked if this enlargement was only a temporary affair or if they were going to get that kind of a paper every week. We will say in answer to this that it is permanent, at least until we go to something better.

This enlargement of the paper is a matter that has been under consideration for some time, but there have been a great many changes about the office since the present proprietors took charge of the paper and it was impossible to make them all at once. We feel that this last change is one of the most important ones to our readers that has been made. It means that the amount of reading matter in the paper is fully doubled, and besides giving our readers all of the local happenings, we are also enabled to give them a summary of the general and state news, besides a certain amount of selected miscellany and stories. For some time past our advertising patrons have been crowding us a trifle hard for space, so that at times we were compelled to omit reading matter as well as advertisements, but we feel that this will not be the case hereafter. We would like our friends to read their paper and then hand it to a neighbor that they may see what kind of a sheet we are publishing and it is possible that they will be doing both their neighbor and ourselves a good turn. The price of the paper will remain the same as heretofore, notwithstanding the fact that our patrons are getting a much better service and that it costs us much more to give it to them. The Tribune will continue to handle all the news of the neighborhood, and we will always be pleased to publish any items about the people of this vicinity or their friends that may be sent in.

Notice.

As I expect to be absent the greater part of the summer it is natural that I should desire those persons who owe me money to call and settle their accounts before I leave. Those accounts that are not in by the 15th of April will be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection.

Fire at Dr. Hougens.
A small blaze was discovered in the attic of Dr. Hougens' home this morning. Considerable water was poured into the attic, however, which wet things down so effectively that the loss will not be up considerable. The fire evidently originated from the chimney.

The Leading Medical Specialist.
Up to the present era of marvellous medical achievement some diseases baffled all attempts to cure. Especially was this true of chronic, nervous and blood maladies associated with disorder and disease of the genito-urinary organs.

The "Intimacy of man to man makes countless thousands mourn," by those whose self-control is more or less of a failure makes deplorable wreckage of untold human lives. Among the examples of successful representatives of modern specialization who have solved the problem of curing different forms of chronic malady, is Dr. Turbin of Chicago. His whole professional life has been devoted to the study of chronic, nervous and organic diseases which overthrow the powers of the body by disturbing the reconstructive processes and impairing the functions of the urinary and reproductive systems.

His method of cure of all chronic ills in either sex has been proven, by results obtained, to be unmatched. Thousands of men who despaired of ever being benefited have been cured by him, of various nervous and specific weaknesses, and vast numbers of women of every age, enslaved by afflictions peculiar to the sex have been cured by Dr. Turbin.

No matter what the nature of your trouble, if it is obstinate, and resists the treatment of others, get the diagnosis of Dr. Turbin, and if the malady under which you are laboring and suffering comes within the circle of his specialty, he will cure you. If your particular disease does not rightly come within his chosen specialty, field, or your malady has reached a stage of incurability, he will not deign informing you of the facts. Dr. Turbin's success is in perfect keeping with his great achievements in specialty practice.

Dr. Turbin will be in Grand Rapids Thursday, April 21st at the Dixon house.

Richard Wiperman entertained the members of the E. O. K. Club on Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing hearts, which, with slight variations, is a very popular game with the members. The party was a sort of a farewell to Mr. Falch, who was going to leave the city, and as the clock in the old church tower tolled out the hour of twelve he took one of the members of the club off to one side and whispered to him the meaning of the three letters which have stood for the name of the club. Henry Sampson was also initiated as a member of the club.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Price, who have lived at Calumet, Michigan during the past year, were in the city several days last week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kellogg. Mr. Price stated that when they left Calumet the snow was about five feet in the town but that they were expecting the spring breakup soon. So much snow falls up in that country that no attempt is made to remove it from the streets, but a heavy roller is run over it after each snow fall, which compresses it to the consistency of ice. This had been done so many times the past winter that the snow or ice had accumulated to a depth of about five feet, and merchants were obliged to cut steps down to get into their stores. When Mr. Price left, a gang of men had been set to work to plow up the snow and as this is done it is removed from the town with the use of teams. Calumet is a place of about 6,000 people, and the surrounding towns, the inhabitants of which get their mail at the Calumet postoffice, bring the population up to some where near fifty thousand. Calumet is only a village, however, never having been chartered as a city. To give some idea of the foreign population there, Mr. Price stated that twenty-five foreign languages were spoken from the pulpits of the town, not to mention those who were so few in number that they had no minister of their own tongue. Mr. and Mrs. Price left on Monday for Milwaukee, where Mr. Price will have charge of the office of the International Correspondence schools.
—Faust's superb production of "The Two Orphans" will be seen here Thursday April 14. Those who are familiar with this elaborate revival will certainly take advantage of the opportunity to witness it. When it was produced this season in Milwaukee, the local papers did not hesitate to say that it was superior in every way to any revival that has been made since its original production in New York City. In fact the possibilities in the play have been lost sight of by most of our producers. When Messrs. Faust and Primknop conceived the idea of making this revival they spared no pains or expense to do it full justice, and so much interest was created that the idea has since been taken up by one of the leading theatrical managers in New York City, and this spring an all star cast including the most celebrated players of America will tour the country in this justly celebrated drama. While it is possible that the actors in the all star production will surpass any point of merit thus neglected in the Faust company, it is questionable whether or not the play will be more correctly staged and costumed. By a special arrangement the company will remain in this city for three nights, and will produce two other plays, "The Diamond King" and "The Venetian," by Marie Correlli.

I Wish I Could.

I stand and look in the glass to-night
At my girlish form and my face so fair,
With not a trace of wrinkles on my face,
Nor hint of shadow of coming care.
I feel as though I were a girl again,
Growing old is something that's far away.
It seems as if I always must be
Young and happy, care free and gay,
Deep down in my heart down a thought untold.
I wish I could always stay a girl.

My mother is near me, best friend and true,
I turn to leave her, and yet I stay;
I dimly wonder if I shall, too,
Like sweet and mother when I am gray.
Ah! mother love is a precious pearl—
I wish I could always stay a girl.

But he is waiting for me below,
The man I have promised to love and wed,
Oh! what does this hold for me? Him or me?
What? I am so happy, yet I feel with dread!
Ah! choice of sweet, Ah! shining curls
I wish I could always stay a girl.

A SUBURBAN SCANDAL

By A. M. JOHN ADCKOCK.

Edmund Dolly went home by the city car that evening by an earlier train than usual, and Mrs. Dolly was out to meet him. He had a very bad day, for the night before he and Letty had quarreled, and it was because this had been feeling him and he was afraid of making his peace with her that he had contrived to get home so much earlier than usual. And now she was waiting.

"What's up?" she asked, as he came in. "You look as if you had been through a mill."

"I have," he said, "but it's nothing. I was just a little tired."

"You were?" she asked, "and you didn't say a word about it?"

"I was," he said, "but I didn't want to worry you."

He had a very bad day, for the night before he and Letty had quarreled, and it was because this had been feeling him and he was afraid of making his peace with her that he had contrived to get home so much earlier than usual. And now she was waiting.

"What's up?" she asked, as he came in. "You look as if you had been through a mill."

"I have," he said, "but it's nothing. I was just a little tired."

WENT INTO THE "OCEAN."

Amateur Actor's Humorous Experiment at Church Entertainment.

A story of disastrous amateur theatricals in the burp of Millard N. J. is printed in the New York Tribune without the means of preventing much of the actors in an amateur play, "The Lone Fisherman," at a church entertainment here last night, nearly met with a watery death in the most thrilling part of the drama. His involuntary "turn" proved to be the lot of the evening.

When the curtain arose Mr. Rioran was discovered sitting on a "rock" made and out on the bank of the "ocean." The bank was home-made, and it was not long before there was a landslide and Mr. Rioran was precipitated into the "ocean" just as he was uttering some of his most colorful sentences. There was a prodigious splash, and a mild panic among the audience. For a moment nothing could be seen but a few faint bubbles rising from the depths.

Others came to his assistance and the submerged man was rescued, with his costume sadly bedraggled. He was safe, but the show had to be taken to the shop for repairs. The play will be repeated, it was so successful, but Mr. Rioran says he will sit on the floor next time.

The Doctors Failed.

Kilgore, O., April 11.—A rather remarkable case has just come to light in this place. Mr. John T. Riekle had been suffering for some time with an aggravated form of kidney disease which had caused him a great deal of discomfort.

He tried the treatment of several doctors, but did not get any better. At last he happened to read an advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which has been making many wonderful cures, and he bought some at once and began to use them. He says of the result:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills do just what they are advertised to do. I can tell you that for the good they have done for me. They cured me completely after the doctors had failed and I wish that every poor sufferer could hear of them, for I know they will cure kidney trouble."

There seems to be no case of kidney trouble, rheumatism or backache that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure perfectly and permanently.

Maybe They Played "Bedelia."

Guests at the Shoreham hotel, Washington, were astonished the other evening on seeing the manager order the orchestra to play "Bedelia." The explanation was given later. Level P. once vice president, owns the hotel, and he was there that evening. About 9 o'clock he called for the manager and said: "What's that noise I hear?" The manager replied that it was the orchestra playing "Bedelia." "Well, stop it at once," said Mr. P. "I'm keeping me awake. Maybe I'm too old to enjoy good music and maybe it's a bad orchestra. Anyhow, stop it!"

The young men took turns at the work, putting in their spare time examining engines and boilers. Each will write an essay on his experience.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by inflammation of the mucous membrane of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the passage of air from the outside of the ear to the middle ear. When it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and when it is only partially closed, the hearing is impaired. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will cure this inflammation, and when the tube is again opened, the hearing will be restored to its normal condition. Did You Ever Do It?

"Big Sam" Sullivan, the New York congressman, joined with some friends in sending a commissioner to New Orleans to place a lot of money on "a sure thing" at the races there. The horse lost and in an hour or so Mr. Sullivan received this telegram: "Am Sullivan wired back, 'Act like you are broke,' and went home in disgust."

KUROPATKIN CAN BE PATIENT.

Russian General Will Not Fight Until European He.

European writers on military topics generally agree as to a marked difference between the late Gen. Skobeleff and Gen. Kuropatkin. It is accounts Skobeleff was a Russian Phil Sheridan, with a dash of Custer in him; Kuropatkin is a compound of McChollan and "Pop" Thomas. He has a rooted objection to fighting before he has completed his preparations and everything just to his mind. He thinks it is much better to be late than to be sorry. He is quite capable of falling back before the Japanese, and advancing again and again, but he will not be once gets ready to fight things will immediately become very interesting.

Too Careful About Details.

An old Scottish minister took it into his head to marry his housekeeper, his precursor being.

When the bank was to be proclaimed, the minister, not caring to make the unusual himself, arranged with a lawyer to do it.

"Now," he said, "you just call out in a loud voice—'Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray, of this parish, and Jean Lowe, of the same.' 'Ha, ha,' laughed the minister, as he concluded. 'What he thought it?"

The Sabbath came, and the congregation assembled. When the moment arrived the lady, who had not prepared herself, arose and called out:

"Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray, of this parish, and Jean Lowe, of the same. 'Ha, ha,' laughed the minister, as he concluded. 'What he thought it?"

Lowering Cable Rates.

In the early days of automobile travel the minimum rate was $100 for twelve miles, and $5 for each additional mile. This was reduced after a few years to $25 for ten miles. In 1872 a rate of $1 a week was introduced. The world's system became popular and was soon established in all parts of the world. Since 1888 the cable rate across the Atlantic has been down to 25 cents a week, and the tariff now ranges from that figure to $5 a week between England and Peru. The average for the whole world is $1 a week.
